

In-Home & School-Based Behaviour Support

Support where it matters most — in the child's everyday world

At Sirv, we believe real change happens in real environments. That's why we deliver behaviour support in the places where children and teens live, learn and connect — at home, in classrooms, and within their communities. By observing and modelling strategies in context, we help children feel safe and supported while building skills that last.

Who is it for?

- Children and young people aged 0–17
- Families navigating challenging behaviours at home
- Schools seeking practical, relationship-first support
- Students experiencing difficulty with transitions, routines or learning
- Parents, carers or teachers needing tailored coaching and strategy implementation

Involved?

Our in-home and school-based sessions are:

- Observational: We watch and listen to understand what's happening
- Collaborative: We work alongside parents, carers or teachers in real time
- Modelling: We demonstrate calming, redirecting and relational techniques
- Responsive: Strategies are adapted for the environment, routines and child's needs
- Strengths-based: We focus on what's working and build from there

Common Areas of Support

- Emotional regulation and sensory needs
 - Transitions (bedtime, morning routines, school arrival)
 - Social skills and peer conflict

- Task initiation and attention challenges
- Parent-child connection and communication
- Teacher-student rapport and engagement
- Home-school strategy alignment

Why Choose Sirv?

- Grounded in Attachment Theory and positive psychology
- Neuro-affirming and trauma-aware
- Experienced in school collaboration, complex needs, and OOHC
- We work with you — not over you
