

Child Protection Support & Contact Session Coaching

Walking alongside families to rebuild connection and strengthen relationships

Navigating child protection systems can be overwhelming. At Sirv, we offer practical, compassionate support to parents and carers involved in Child Safety, helping them strengthen their relationships with their children while working toward reunification, safety and long-term wellbeing.

Our focus is not on judgement, but on coaching, modelling and restoring trust — during contact sessions and beyond.

Who We Support

- Parents with children in out-of-home care (OOHC)
- Families with active Child Safety involvement
- Carers preparing for reunification
- Support workers coordinating supervised or supported visits
- Caseworkers seeking practical behavioural or relational input

What's Included

- Contact session attendance (supervised or supported)
 - We attend in-person sessions to model connection-based strategies, emotional coaching, and non-verbal communication
 - Feedback and reflection offered post-session to support ongoing learning
- Coaching for parents and carers
 - Strengths-based preparation before visits
 - Practical strategies to manage nerves, regulate emotions, and engage positively
 - Visual tools, scripting and real-time examples
- Communication & attachment building
 - Support for play-based interaction, routine-building, and emotional safety
 - Support for rebuilding fractured trust or strained relationships
- Child-focused reporting (with consent)
 - Written summaries to support case planning (when applicable)

Our Philosophy

We believe:

- Every parent deserves the opportunity to reconnect with their child
- Behaviour is communication — from both children and adults
- Safety and trust grow through predictable, supported relationships
- Real change happens when people feel seen, not shamed
